Instructions No. 975

A bird house is usually an undisputed attraction for the little peepers in the garden. Do you also like to watch the constant hustle and bustle? Then we have just the right instructions for you here on how to get the portrait into your home.

And it is as simple as that:

Prime the birdhouse in white and paint the roof in brown. Apply the shades with a mixture of white and brown. After everything is dry, screw on the base plate and glue on the moss. For the roof, cut suitable strips from the stamping foil, mark the tiles with the metal pressing tool and glue them on the roof. If you do not have an embossing tool, cut out the roof tiles and glue them together in a scaly pattern. For a better colour result, prime a piece of embossing foil in white, let it dry and glue on the desired napkin motif. Use only the printed layer. When it is dried, cut out the motif, who likes embossing the contours, place the motif and stick it on desired Position solid. Insert the light chain and fix it with hot glue, as well as the birds that you can now place.

If you have acquired a taste for metal embossing, you can order the pressing tooland the special embossing mat separately.
