Difficulty: Beginner

Working time: 2 Hours

Are you looking for a unique decoration idea for your family celebration?
The stylish tealight holders and napkin rings made from decorative fish are guaranteed to turn heads at a communion, confirmation or christening. With our simple step-by-step instructions, you're sure to succeed.
The craft idea is perfect for your personal family celebration and can be customized. Let yourself be inspired and express your creativity!

Watering fish

Start by mixing the "Raysin" casting powder with water to form a smooth, creamy mixture.
You will need around eight tablespoons of casting powder for a complete mold. Pour the mixture into the mold provided.

Tap the filled mold lightly on the table or on a flat surface.
This causes any air bubbles trapped during the pouring process to rise and escape. This also gives the surface of your casting a nice smooth finish.

After about 30 minutes, you can carefully remove the cast fish from the mold. However, leave them to air dry for a further two hours to ensure optimum stability.
If there are any rough edges, you can gently smooth them out with sandpaper .

Table design with fish candle holders

Now comes the creative part: paint the tealight holders made of wood and some scatter decoration with colorful craft paints of your choice.
These colors will bring your arrangement to life and are perfect for celebrations such as communions, confirmations and christenings.
Arrange the painted tealight holders on the table by first placing them on rustic tree slices.

Cut eucalyptus branches with a side cutter and place them decoratively around the tealight holders and place the cast fish in this decoration.
You can also add more cast fish if you wish.

Fold the napkins artistically and push them through the opening of the larger fish. Label the gift tags with a black pigment brush pen and tie them to the smaller cast fish with some jute cord.

These "place cards" add a stylish touch to your table and will delight every guest.

Whether for a communion, confirmation or christening - the creative table decorations with fish are an absolute eye-catcher.
