Difficulty: Beginner

Working time: 30 Minutes

With a willow wreath, you can create an atmospheric Christmas wreath for your door or wall in no time. Natural materials meet festive accents, instantly making your home more inviting. When decorating and securing the wreath with a bit of hot glue, you can arrange fir branches, berries, and a bow to suit your personal style. The result is a personalized “ christmas decoration, ” that also makes for a stunning “ gift idea .”

Here's how to make the wreath:

Decorating a Willow Wreath for Christmas Place the willow wreath on a non-slip surface and gently turn it over in your hands. This will help you identify the naturally most attractive side and decide which end will be the top and which the bottom. This will help you place the decorations strategically so that the Christmas wreath looks harmonious when it’s finished.

Incorporate Fir Branches and Berries as a Base Start with the fir branches: Slide the stems diagonally between the willow twigs. Then insert the berry branches in between. The red accents immediately add a festive touch and give the greenery more depth.

Secure everything: use hot glue as needed If a branch isn't secure enough or comes loose when you lift it, secure it in spot with a small amount of hot glue. Apply the glue sparingly directly at the base of the stem, where it disappears into the " willow ." The purpose: The decoration stays stable when hung, and no glue is visible from the front. Let the glue cool briefly before continuing so that nothing slips out of place.

Attach the bow and ribbon for hanging Attach the bow to the wreath and a ribbon for hanging. Make sure the ribbon is long enough so that the door wreath will hang at the desired height later.

If you're now in the mood for more Advent decorations and additional ideas for door wreaths, Christmas wreaths, and " natural materials ," you'll find matching craft supplies, ribbons, and festive decorative elements in our online shop to help you get creative right away.
